

marriage:

the creation of a quasi-stable social monopole from two consenting constituent personicles, subject to both spontaneous and stimulated decay from the weak interactions (and numerous human weaknesses have been discovered over the ages)

or is it the social equivalent of black hole formation from the chance collision of two individual masses surpassing the critical mass for psychological dependency?

or is it like sticking together a couple of chocolate cookies with a little cream filler to make an Oreo[®]? (often found crushed in vanilla ice cream these days...)

If you figure it out, let us know.
Good luck with the research.

marriage:

the creation of a quasi-stable social monopole from two consenting constituent personicles, subject to both spontaneous and stimulated decay from the weak interactions (and numerous human weaknesses have been discovered over the ages)

or is it the social equivalent of black hole formation from the chance collision of two individual masses surpassing the critical mass for psychological dependency?

or is it like sticking together a couple of chocolate cookies with a little cream filler to make an Oreo[®]? (often found crushed in vanilla ice cream these days...)

If you figure it out, let us know.
Good luck with the research.

a small step for you...

a giant leap for the state of Italy...

I wish you every possibility of success and happiness in your new official relationship [these days we all need a bit of good luck as well]

ENJOY

