_____ Your Name

Year End Bonus!

In many companies, year-end bonuses are linked to employee performance, and one major factor in measuring performance is the evaluation by those people that know the employee best: his or her co-workers.

For this evaluation, you are given 100 Bonus Bucks to distribute as you see fit to your project team members, including yourself. You may divide these Bonus Bucks up any way you like, but you must distribute all 100 of them. If you worked alone, simply assign all 100 to yourself.

Some factors you may use to determine who gets how many are: contribution to team, implementation effort, creative effort, problem solving effort, consistent level of contribution, teamwork exhibited.
